FAQs

LONDON TO BRIGHTON OFFROAD 2017 TRANSPORT

What happens if I forget it/my phone dies?

We will have a list of everyone who has purchased transport as well as how many tickets you have purchased. If you don't have your ticket with you, our member of staff will need to check your name off against the list before allowing you on board. You will be asked for proof of identification in this instance.

What's stopping someone from photocopying a ticket?

There is a unique reference number associated to every purchase which is printed on your ticket. Your ticket will be checked against our records which will tell us what you've purchased and how many tickets you've purchased. You will only be allowed onto the service for the number of tickets you've bought.

Can I buy my ticket on the night?

No – tickets can only be purchased in advance online, there will be none on sale on the night. If there are any surplus seats our staff may allow additional people onto the service before departure. But this is at their discretion and cannot be guaranteed.

What happens if I don't use my ticket or don't take part in the event?

As per the terms and conditions, please be aware that transport tickets are non-refundable.
